ABANDON KANSAS FRONTMAN JEREMY SPRING TO EMBARK ON SOLO DATES THE LIVING ROOM TOUR II

ABANDON KANSAS LOOKS FORWARD TO UPCOMING ALBUM
AD ASTRA PER ASPERA TO STREET IN EARLY 2011

Abandon Kansas singer Jeremy Spring gets set to hit the road where he will play living rooms across America, literally on a solo acoustic run deemed The Living Room Tour II, dates kick off on November 26.

"Basically, I would like to sit in your living room and share some music with an acoustic guitar. I'll be playing Abandon Kansas songs from past releases and the new record, and of course some Christmas tunes. I also intend on sharing stories from my trip to Ecuador and some stories behind the songs I've written. No lights, no sound system, no microphones and no lines outside in the cold. Picture a laid-back house party vibe with plenty of hot beverages, warm sweaters, and a circle of friends telling stories and singing songs" says Jeremy Abandon Kansas recently finished recording their full-length album for Gotee Records, Ad Astra Per Aspera (latin for "to the stars through difficulties") with producer Mark Lee Townsend (Deas Vail, House of Heroes). To give fans an early taste of Ad Astra Per Aspera, the first single from the release 'The Golden State' is available now at iTunes and all digital outlets, the digital single includes the new single, music video and the never-released acoustic version of 'Close Your Eyes' (studio version available on the band's 2009 EP release We're All Going Somewhere).

Abandon Kansas' version of "O Come All Ye Faithful" is included on 'Tis The Season To Be Gotee Christmas compilation, out now at all digital outlets. Tis The Season To Be Gotee also features label-mates Relient K, House of Heroes, Ayiesha Woods and Stephanie Smith performing a variety of holiday classics and favorites.
